Pre-Anesthetic Blood Panel: We highly recommend having blood work performed prior to anesthesia. This gives us information regarding your pet's overall health, gives us a baseline of normal values to compare to in the future, and helps detect early signs of disease such as diabetes or kidney issues. If there is a concern moving forward with surgery, we will contact you with results first.

Would you like a pre-anesthetic blood panel?     Yes       No      Cost $165

Dental X-Ray: Radiographs (X-Ray) are an important tool in early detection and prevention of tooth related disease such as tooth root abscesses or resorptive tooth roots. We recommend every dental be accompanied with films in order to have a complete picture of your pet's overall dental health.

Would you like Xrays performed today?     Yes       No      Cost $125

Dental Extractions: During your pet's oral exam, we may discover teeth fractured, loose, have exposed roots, or are otherwise nonviable. If the veterinarian decides these teeth are affecting the health and quality of life of the your pet, they will be extracted at an additional cost.

The final price may reflect extraction costs.      Cost $95-$375+

Vaccinations: If your pet is due for vaccinations, we can administer while in the clinic. If records are not provided prior to drop off or you select yes, these vaccinations are administered.    Dogs: Dapp, Rabies, Bordetella // Cats: FVRCP-Leuk, Rabies

Would you like any due vaccinations updated?     Yes       No      Cost $30-$40 each

Do you have any questions or concerns? (May include an exam fee charge) _____
